TWENTY FIRST YEAR.

LANCASTER, KY., FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1910.

Mr. Farmer,

We have one of the best CULTIVATORS on the market. No trouble to explain its merits.

Now is a good time for you to have your Binders, Mowers, and Implements repaired.

We carry in stock, Knives Sections, Guards Etc. for all make of machines.

See our Wire Fence.

CONN BROTHERS

Lancaster, Ky.

WHY SHOULD YOU HangBack

when all your friends are using OBELISK FLOUR. Only one result can be had from the use of Obelisk Flour, whether you bake bread, cake or pastry all will be light, crisp and pure. It is the most economical to use because it has the greatest food value and is milked from good wheat which is rich in gluten, the life giving germ of wheat.

BANKS HUDSON.

A Car Load of LaPorte and John Deere

BUGGIES NOW ON HAND

We have bought this lot of Buggies so as to offer them to you at a very low price. We have the genuine Brown cultivator, also the John Deere Disk cultivator. None so good as either. Walter A. Wood Binders and Mowers. A few Cutaway Harrows left, none so good. saves a team and hand each day.

J. R. Mount, Son & Co.

Hardware, Implements, Wagons.

The County Sunday School Convention will be held at the Methodist church June 11th, beginning at 9:45.

Mrs. Frank B. Marksbury entertained the Presbyterian society of the Missionary Arts and Craft Thursday afternoon. Most delightful refreshments were served.

Rue & Curry, of Harrodsburg sold last week for H. M. Herndon about 150 to 175 acres of farm, 3 1/2 miles south of Danville, Ky., to J. M. Elder, formerly of Washington county, now of Harrodsburg, at $95 per acre. Possession January 1st, 1911.

Miss Sallie Elkin gave a handsome reception Saturday afternoon in honor of Mrs. S. H. Nickells who is to leave soon for her new home in Harrodsburg. The refreshments were quite appetizing and the guests assembled certainly enjoyed the occasion.

Mrs. O. W. Darnold, of Lancaster, a niece of our popular townsman and business citizen, Mr. John L. Dunn, is an applicant for a teacher's place in the Graded School here. Mrs. Darnold is an excellent and highly educated lady and our trustees would make a wise choice in selecting her to help instruct the pupils.—Harrodsburg Herald.

While Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dickerson were visiting relatives in the country their son Wesley, became very ill and was hastened to town to a physician. When they arrived at home they found their oldest daughter Pearl and sister, Miss Flossie May Sutton both quite ill, of what is supposed to have been ptomaine poisoning from eating ice cream. After working with all three for some time they were relieved and all danger averted. It was certainly a narrow escape for the family.

Arrival.
Little Robert McRoberts Johnson arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McClellan Johnson on last Monday morning. We congratulate the proud parents and trust that the promising boy may grow into noble manhood and fill the sunset of his parents' life with comfort and happiness such as can only come from a dutiful child.

Business Improvements.
The bustling firm of Haselden Bros. has just completed their large three story building adjoining their old store rooms and now have one of the most up-to-date and convenient places of business in this part of the State.

This enables these bustling business men to handle a much larger stock and to display their goods to a better advantage.

Good Work Being Done.
We are pleased to report that the work done on the Lexington pike by the new machinery seems to be first class. It is a real pleasure to ride over such roads. We are more than ever convinced that the county has made the right move toward making roads. Squire Jim Bourne and Road Supervisor Gooch are pushing the work and are making a good showing.

Base Ball.
Lancaster will play Middlesburg Friday at the Lancaster Ball Park. "Rube" Watkins will pitch for Middlesburg. Our boys were taken in again last Friday by the crack Williams team. The score was 5 to one, however it was a good game and Lancaster only had two out of town men. It looked at times as if Lancaster was sure to win the game but bad batting lost it.

The Lancaster team is getting in practice and will have Donehue in a short time to take his old place behind the bat. Watch out for a good game this week.

Cattle Sale.
A large crowd attended the sale of short horn cattle last week held by Mr. H. P. Hawkins on his farm four miles from Danville. A total of twenty head of cows, calves and bulls were sold at auction. The 20 averages $185 per head and brought a total of $3,700. Thomas Johnson, of Columbus, O., bought the best cow in the lot and paid $175 for her. Carpenter & Ross, of Mansfield, O., paid $500 for a cow, and O. F. Hinkle, of Kenyon, Wisconsin, paid $275 for the bull, Anoka, W. T. Robinson, of Faulkner, bought seven or eight head of stock at fancy prices. John Buster, of the same community, bought several head, as did also Mr. W. K. Baughman, of Hustonville.

Court News.
William May, of Buckeye, was tried in the county Judges Court last week and given fifty dollars and cost for being drunk and disturbing the peace on Scotts Fork a few weeks ago.

Finis Leavell, colored, was tried before a jury in the County Judges court and fined fifty dollars and given ten days in jail for running a blind tiger at three forks of Sugar creek.

Leonard Vanwinkle of the Cartersville section, was convicted of the offense of disturbing religious worship and is to help rebuild the Lexington pike to satisfy the fine and cost.

Jim Link Vanwinkle of the Cartersville section is also working on the pike for the county to satisfy a fine he got in Judge Fords court for some misdemeanors committed near Cartersville.

A Success.

The play "Blundering Bille" given by Miss Nell Johnson was quite a success and was enjoyed by a crowded house. All the young actors and actresses acquitted themselves nicely and little Helen Young sang between acts which was one of the best attractions of the show.

Senator Bradley Makes Great Speech

Senator W. O. Bradley was the orator of the day at Arlington Cemetery, former home of Robt. E. Lee, on May 30. His manly and patriotic speech was greeted by those who wore the gray as well as by those who wore the blue especially when he mentioned that the north and South were again united in brotherly love.

The Senator has attracted much attention by his great speeches since he has been in the Senate.

Grand Rally.

The colored people had a grand rally on May 30th, decoration day and a large crowd of colored people was in town. At 1:30 p. m. headed by the Lancaster colored band they marched to the cemetery and there scattered flowers on the graves of the dead. Interesting addresses were given by Rev. Ward and Dan Bogle after which the crowd marched thro town to the ball grounds on Mrs. Higginbotham's farm where the Stanford base ball team defeated Lancaster by a score of 14 to 12. A big dance followed at the colored hall.

Council Meeting

Next Monday night is the regular meeting night of the City Council. We have talked to a number of progressive men in town and each and every one are in favor of having cement walks around the Square, so why all this delay? Bring the question to an end on next Monday night and let's have these walks all finished in time for the Fair.

Richmond street now has a solid line of cement walks from Mr. E. W. Moricow, to Dr. J. A. Amon's residence and we understand Messrs Price and Haselden are to follow suit.

We think that Lexington street is sure to catch this cement walk fever.

Body of Alma Kellner Found

The body of the Alma Kellner was found at 9:30 a. m. Monday, in the cellar of St John's school at Louisville, Ky., wrapped in an old piece of carpet sewed together lengthwise. It was discovered by Richard Baxter Sweet, who was pumping water out of the old cellar. $2,000 reward has been offered for the conviction of the guilty person, and so far one person, Mrs. Joseph Wendling, has been arrested on the charge of accessory to the murder and it is suspected that her husband, the former janitor is the guilty one, as blood was found on an old hat of his and the ring worn by Alma Kellner on the date of her disappearance was found in the possession of Mrs. Wendling. As yet Wendling has not been found he deserted his wife and left Louisville on Jan. 14, last, the very day that Frank Fehr called to see Father Schumann on a matter pertaining to the mysterious disappearance of Alma Kellner. The little body was laid to rest in St. Louis cemetery in Louisville Tuesday and only four men attended the funeral. The heartbroken parents had not sufficiently recovered from the dreadful shock to be present so it was thought best to have a quiet funeral. Everyone is still at a loss to know why little Alma was murdered and it is hoped that the detectives on the case will clear the great mystery and have the guilty convicted.

McCreary Announces For Governor.

Hon. James B. McCreary will be in the race for the nomination for Governor. While in Lexington Monday he made the following announcement of his candidacy:

"Many Democrats have in person and by letter said to me that I should be the Democratic candidate for Governor and if nominated I would have the unanimous support of the Democratic party. Of course, I am very grateful for this evidence of confidence. I did not expect when my term expired in the United States Senate to be a candidate for office again, but the solicitation of my friends and the kind editorials in a great many newspapers induced me to say to some of my friends who wrote me urgent letters that I would take the subject of my candidacy for Governor under consideration. It is probably about one year before a State Democratic ticket will be nominated. Yet I believe the time has arrived for me to give an answer in some form to my brother Democrats who have honored me.

"I believe the success of the Democratic party in the next State election should be paramount to individual success and I will do all in my power to have a State ticket nominated of Democrats who it is believed will be supported by the whole Democratic party and I will cheerfully support the nominee and make speeches for them. The party to which I have belonged all my life has honored me so often that I believe it is entitled to my services, whenever they are needed or demanded. I believe any Democrat who is nominated fairly by the State Democratic convention should accept, and if I am honored by being nominated as the Democratic candidate for Governor I will accept."

Hand us that dollar please.

Several young people will attend the dance in Danville Friday night, to be given at the skating rink.

New Auto.

Mr. Alex Walker has just returned from Indianapolis where he purchased a large $2,000 Richmond touring car. It will arrive here about June 15.

The members of the U. D. C. and the Confederate Veterans will repair to the cemetery Friday afternoon June 3rd at 2 o'clock to decorate the graves of their departed comrades. The public at large is invited to attend these impressive and appropriate services.

New Bank For Stanford.

At a meeting of prominent Lincoln county people it was decided to organize a new bank in Stanford to be known as the State Bank & Trust Co., with Mr. W. L. McCarty, the present sheriff of the county as President. The capital stock will be $50,000. This will be the third bank for Stanford and great success is predicted for the new financial institution.

Decoration Day.

"On Fame's eternal camping ground Their silent tents are spread, And Glory guards with solemn round The Bivouac of the Dead."

All business was practically suspended on Monday, it being the day commemorating the death of the soldiers who fell in the Civil War.

To set apart one day of the year in memory of the dead, to visit their silent cities, and strew with flowers the graves is a beautiful tribute and one worthy of the sentiment of a great people. In this day of ceaseless activity where each is striving to out-do the other, it is well to pause and reflect, for reflection makes us serious. Does it ever occur to you that the only thing that you can take out of this life is your soul, and the character of that immortal soul decides your destiny in the life to come? Those broad acres—are they really yours? That gold that you hold so miserly in the hollow of your hand—to whom does it belong? Would it not be wise to store up treasures on the other shore, whither each frail bark is sure to steer some day. For the life of man is

"Like to the falling of a star,
Or as the flight of eagles are;
Or like the fresh springs gaudy hue,
Or silver drops of morning dew;
Or like the wind that chafes the flood,
Or bubbles which on water stood;
E'en such is man; whose borrow'd light Is straight called in and paid to night,
The wind blows out, the bubble dies;
The spring entombed, in autumn lies;
The dew's dried up, the star is shot.
The flight is past, and man forgot."

Haselden Addition.

Some few weeks ago Mr. Joe Haselden, the bustling insurance man purchased the old Curry place and is opening a new street through it. He has several teams busy every day now and is getting it in good shape and will have about 1,500 feet of new street fifty feet wide. He will put cement walks in front of the lots and will not sell to anyone who will not build a nice house. The lots will not be sold to colored people. This is one of the most desirable parts of our little city, and the prospects are that several new houses will go up in the next few months.

For several years there has been an increasing demand for houses and consequently every available lot has been used, and why should our city not grow? It is one that enjoys many natural and acquired resources and that needs but the skillful manipulation of a man to make them yield bountifully of their rich treasure—a substantial city whose foundations are laid upon a soil that cannot be surpassed for productiveness—a city supplied with the very best and purest of water—a city whose educational advantages have reached a standard, through the skillful direction of competent officials, second to that of no other place of its size anywhere—a city where harmony among the communicants of the different churches is in perfect accord with objects sought by our forefathers of the "Mayflower" and all doctrines are ably expounded with untrammelled freedom from the pulpits of our different churches—a city whose social advantages are equal to those afforded by places many times its size and age—a city where the rich enjoy every luxury desired, and the poor are not allowed to suffer—a city where peace and good will toward all men is exemplified. Such a city is ours, whose praises we shout aloud from the housetop through this issue. If, perchance, a copy of this paper should fall into the hands of any who are in search of a new location—a place where church, school and social advantages are given emphasis, and where you can live out your allotted number of years without fear of pestilence or famine, we say, like one of old: "Come thou with us and we will do thee good."

Seventeen Year Locust.

This is the year that the 17-year locust is due again, and in a short time he will make his appearance on the farms of the middle west. At least the authorities on locust lore and surpers in it are sure he will, and they have never been mistaken in the past. Says the Harrodsburg Republican. Now it seems to know exactly where the 17-year locust comes from, but it is a matter of record that he does show up regularly just the same. The thing that is interesting the farmers and the old timers most is whether he will bring a "W" on his wings or a "P," as is hoped. "W" on a 17-year locust's wing means war. There is no reason under the sun that is known as to why it should be always either "W" or "P," but those are the only two letters that have been noticed. Locust lore experts have a good deal of statistical backing when they assert that if "W" is on the wings it will surely mean war, and if the "P" is on the wings it will just as surely mean peace. "The last time the locusts were here, in 1893," said an old commercial traveler the other day, "the wings bore a decided 'W.' And we promptly got into war with Spain. In 1876 I saw the 'P' on the wings myself, and following that we had peace and plenty. I don't remember so far back as 1859, that is to say, I don't remember locusts back in those days, but I have been told by scores of old farmers that the 17-year locusts kind showed up that year and bore 'W' on each wing. The Civil War followed. Some of the older generation of farmers have records in the old family Bible to prove that the former visitation of 17-year locusts presaged the Mexican war by bearing the 'W' on their wings. I can tell you the farmers are not anxious to have them come, but they are all superstitious as to their verity as harbingers. When you come to think of it, this letter business seems like a foolish superstition. But when you know that they do bear either the "W" or the "P" and the sign has never failed, how are you going to explain it?"

More Help For Schools.

The general board of education, backed by $53,000,000.00 of the Rockefeller fund, has taken an interest in Kentucky and soon agents will be sent into our state to co-operate with the Superintendent of public instruction to aid in the establishing of county high schools and improve the elementary schools of the counties.

There has been a great awakening in Kentucky in regard to education in the last five years, and much progress has been made although the good work seems to move on slowly enough. Previous to that time out of the 25,000 school trustees over 5,000 of them could neither read nor write, under the new school law two-thirds of these have been abolished. It is a great difficulty to keep politics out of the school, and the selfish greed of personal gain has sometimes been manifest in members of the school boards. It is rare to select men to act in educational affairs who are themselves ignorant and thus impede progressive methods in education because "I was not taught that way," others still worse only regard their position for the "pull" it gives them. Every school should be properly equipped, the best teachers obtained, and the children of every district compelled to attend school.

Surely it is a time for larger things, and serious thought when we have attracted by our ignorance the attention of the world to the extent that another state is willing to come forward to lift us out of darkness. Kentucky, the beautiful state, Kentucky, the proud state, Kentucky, the high and mighty, yet one of the most illiterate states in the union.

Our School.

During the season of our High School commencement we note with pride the increasing interest in educational affairs by the people of our town and county, and we take it to be the greatest and best sign of the growth of the community and the development of the higher ideals. The training and educating of the youth of our land is a matter in which each one is responsible. We may differ in politics, in religion, and on other subjects of more or less importance, but let all be of the same mind in regard to the school and let that mind be to make it the best school possible. It is an agreed fact that our present school building is too small for the number of pupils enrolled, that the ventilation, light and heating are not what they should be, but the manner in which these deficiencies are to be corrected is still an open question. Some believe that nothing but an entirely new building with all the modern improvements will prove satisfactory, others think that the old building can be remodeled as to make it commodious, sanitary, and altogether satisfactory. Every thoughtful man and woman in the district should give their serious attention to, and some agreement should be reached, and some action taken, for is it fair to expect the greatest results from the pupils and the teachers when they have to labor under such a tremendous disadvantage?

Yields To Demand.

Hon. James B. McCreary is now a candidate for the nomination for Governor. The demand has been so universal and urgent by the democratic masses, by the political leaders and by the democratic press that Mr. McCreary could not well decline to serve the party and the people who have heretofore, when in the activity of young ambitions manhood they have ignored him with every office of trust and honor at their disposal. The fact that he has so faithfully, efficiently and wisely performed every duty of the various positions of trust is the reason he is now selected out of the many capable democrats of the state to lead his party and redeem the state. If nominated, which seems almost a certainty, there is no more doubt of his election, it matters not who may be the republican nominee, than there is doubt that he will give the state a clean, successful business administration.

Mr. McCreary could have no political ends to further, at his age, and with an ambition only to unite and restore to political power his party, and to give the State the very best administration possible, which after all, is the most effective way to permanently unite the party, and to us the nomination of the Ex-Senator seems no unwelcome move on the part of the democracy. He has always had the support of the party in Garrard county and now seems to be more popular than at any time past.

There is no Royal Road to Geometry.

In the year 300 B. C. there reigned in Greece a King known as Ptolemy I. and about the only incident of his life which is known to us is a conversation between him and Euclid who had founded the famous school of Geometry at Alexandria. The King had enquired of Euclid if there was no easier method of learning the science and received this reply: "There is no royal road to geometry." That statement, made thousands of years ago, is just as true today and will so remain till the end of time. The combined wealth of the multi-millionaires, the trusts, and the syndicates cannot buy one ounce of knowledge, and the rich and the mighty together with the poor and humble who would attain to a degree of learning must pass over the same rocky road and sit at the feet of the intellectually great, who are, after all the salt of the earth and the nation's power.

Vital Washington News

Special to The Record.
Washington, May 31st.

One hundred and thirty three millions of dollars! Try to comprehend the magnitude of this sum if you can, and then pause and reflect over the fact that it is the amount the Senate has voted to spend on the navy in a single year, in a time of profound peace. Then consider that only 12 years ago, in 1898, the naval appropriation was but $33,003,234, or one hundred millions less than the amount appropriated for the year ending June 30, 1911.

A fact in connection with this awful increase which the public seldom hears is that every penny of this $100,000,000 which is to be spent in excess of the amount used in 1898 comes from the people; not from the rich, but largely from working men and women.

It is the ultimate consumer who pays the battleship bills, who maintains an ever-increasing army of office holders in Washington, and who meets the one-hundred-and-one extravagances of the government. He does it by paying excessive prices for the things he buys.

The government raises practically all of its funds through the customs houses and the internal revenue offices, where taxes are levied on things eaten, worn or used by the people. When the consumer purchases a protected article—and practically all of the necessities of life are protected—he pays the real or natural value of the article and in addition thereto the amount of the tariff tax.

The more battleships constructed, the greater the amount the government must raise through the tax on consumption, and the greater the cost of living.

Thus it is not so strange that under the Taft administration, which is spending more than twice the amount used by Cleveland to run the government, the cost of living is 50 per cent greater than under the Cleveland administration.

While the hat, coat and shirt of the masses are taxed almost 71 per cent, to build $11,000,000 battleships and keep an extravagant government in spending money, Messrs. Morgan, Rockefeller and Carnegie are not asked by the Federal government to pay any tax whatever on their swollen fortunes.

Wealth escapes bearing its just share of the burden of taxation because of the absence of a Federal income or inheritance tax, such as were long ago adopted by Great Britain, Germany, France, Japan, Holland, Austria, Denmark, Switzerland, Australia and New Zealand.

A majority of both Houses of Congress were in favor of tacking an income tax clause to the new tariff law. Such legislation would now be upon the statute books had not President Taft and Senator Aldrich defeated the project through the substitution of a corporation tax. That the necessary three-fourths of the State Legislature will not vote to amend the constitution, is practically certain, which means that an income tax can only be had at the hands of a Democratic administration.

It is estimated that in 1908 the cost of living was nearly 12 per cent higher than it would have been without a tariff. Hence, calculating that the average family consumed $941 worth of supplies per annum, its increased payment on account of the tariff was $111. Of this $111, $16.50 went to the government in collections, and $94.50 went to the trusts in high prices. Of this $94.50, $9.25 was for woolens, more than $17 on other clothing, $6.25 on furniture, $4.25 on beef and mutton and pork, $10.25 on building materials and so on.

In 1910, the cost of living being 15 per cent higher than in 1908, the average family pays $1,080, of which 10 per cent, or $108, is tribute to the trusts and other protected industries. Here is a little table which speaks for itself. It compares the expenditures on the army and navy in a period of peace with amounts expended for features of civil establishment:

Expended since 1897.
For rural free delivery	$173,755,313
For rivers and harbors	296,075,191
For public buildings and grounds	$128,172,408
For the navy	$1,126,210,193
For the army	1,044,101,188

The exposure of Ballinger's secret relations with George W. Perkins, of J. P. Morgan & Co. in Alaskan matters, has started reports that the usefulness of the present secretary of the Interior to even the land grabbers has been destroyed. It is anticipated that as a compromise the investigating committee will not only whitewash Ballinger, but will enmesh him as a scapegoat for the spotless town, and that in acknowledgment of this courtesy he will hand in his resignation.

President Taft, in an interview printed in the June McClure's, praises Aldrich to the skies and says "there were not a few reductions in the tariff schedules which were introduced at his instance, or with his consent." In other words, concessions in legislation which was to affect the cost of living 60,000,000 Americans could only be had with the "consent" of a political boss, and that political boss the acknowledged representative of the tariff trusts and Wall Street millionaires! "We all know that Taft will be re-nominated. That is inevitable," says the Washington Post, which in the National Capital is considered by many to be an administration mouthpiece.

There is little doubt but that the staidpatters still seriously consider Taft the logical candidate in 1912, and if they are in the majority in Congress after the approaching Congressional elections are over, the President will have little or no difficulty in securing a re-nomination if he desires it. It is understood in many quarters that the promise of a re-nomination was the price paid by the powers-that-be for the Presidential signature to the upward revision tariff bill.

School Closes.

Dr. Grinstead, of Richmond, delivered a most excellent baccalaureate sermon to the graduates of the Lancaster High School at the Presbyterian church Sunday morning. This was the beginning of Commencement week which is being thoroughly enjoyed by all. On Monday Dr. Grinstead gave an interesting talk on Australia to the pupils in the High school chapel, and as this was possibly the last chapel exercises of this school year, there mingled with the joy that always comes when vacation is at hand the sorrow of the parting of those who have worked together for this school year. Prof. Bridges spoke of the prosperous school term just closed and bid the pupils a fond goodbye till next September.

At two-thirty Monday afternoon, the grades from one to seven very much delighted a very large audience for an hour or so by recitations, songs and other numbers altogether very creditable to both the little folks and teachers. The eighth grade of the High school is an unusually attractive grade and has been much complimented on its years work. They very charmingly entertained a large crowd on Tuesday afternoon at the High school.

Every number was thoroughly enjoyed.

At the close of the exercises Prof. Bridges delivered Common School diplomas to the following 14 out of the 32 pupils who took the examination, which will entitle them to enter the High School: Mary Johnston Helen Young, Lucian Grant, Mary Clay Williams, Bernie Lear, Marie Ballard, Ector Lawson, Robt. Tomlinson, Elizabeth Collier, Newell Fox, Elijah Cox, Patsy Kinnaird, Carl Acton, James Brown.

He also delivered common school diplomas to Misses Kate Holtzclaw and Elizabeth Givens, two High school pupils, so that they would not have to pay tuition next year.

On Wednesday afternoon the Seniors presented a very interesting program. Each graduate can certainly in after life recall their commencement days with greatest pleasure, for they start on life's journey with the brightest prospects for a successful career, and it is our prayer there may be no heartaches and disappointments.

The closing exercises of the Commencement will be the address to the Graduates by Dr. J. J. Tigert at the Christian church on Thursday at 8 o'clock p.m. However the social part of Commencement will close with a beautiful lawn fete given by the Seniors to the Juniors on the High school campus Friday evening. It will be quite a social event and a happy time expected by the young folks and some old ones.

WOOL,
W. R. GOTT & CO

To give milk is the natural function of the cow, but this function cannot be performed to advantage unless it is fostered by the right kind of care and feed.

It's a shame to whip or jerk a skittish horse that has shied or been frightened by an unusual obstacle. Soothe him rather than try to unnerve him.

With fruit trees the constant effort should be to keep the fruit bearing surface as near the ground as possible. It will make the harvesting of the fruit much easier.

If stock has breeding, quality and uniformity, it is easy to fit it for the show ring, on account of the fact that they will put in the right place every bit of feed that they can use.

Bees will produce more extracted honey to the hive than comb honey, yet the higher price that comb honey will bring makes the income derived from either hive about the same.

For the general farmer and others keeping not more than one or two hundred general-purpose fowls, the natural method of hatching and brooding cannot at present be improved upon.

Sick fowls, or those a little under the weather, should always be fed soft mash, preferably cooked and in small amounts. It is best also to separate them from the other fowls and put in dry warm quarters.

Popcorn should not be planted near field corn or sweet corn. If the stigma of the popcorn are receptive when the pollen of the Indian corn is ripe, it will mix. Popcorn usually matures earlier than Indian corn and may be planted later.

If your system of farm management has not been profitable, reduce the area of arable land. It is no disgrace to fall in the management of a large farm. Few men have such extraordinary ability. You may have success with a small farm. Try it.

The one great advantage in hatching ducks early is that they can be put on the market early and a better price be realized. If well-fed, ducks grow very rapidly and will be ready for market by the time they are ten weeks old, at which age they will weigh as much again as chickens of the same age.

In selecting a site for the garden, it must be remembered that most vegetables require sunshine as well as plant food and moisture. Other things being equal, a southern exposure is preferable, as this gives a maximum amount of sunlight and will be favorable for the growth of early plants. Care should be taken to avoid a northern exposure, or a site sheltered from the sun by buildings.

Tomato and egg plants may be grown for early maturity by setting the seed in four-inch pots. Another method is to use strawberry boxes, minus bottoms, set on a layer of coal ashes. The boxes should be set close and the earth fairly well firm before planting the seed. If premium plants are wanted, twelve to fourteen inches high and in bloom by planting time, sow the seed in three-inch pots right now and later shift to the six-inch size. If the plants are given sufficient room for normal growth, that is all that is necessary.

Queer Attribute of Salmon.

Only about 20 per cent of salmon spawn before they return up the river from the sea, and those that do return after spawning are coarse, and, when cut up, white in the flesh; in fact, are known as bull trout, for so-called "bull trout" are not a different kind of fish, but are plainly salmon which have spawned.

Bricks from Ant Hills.

Excellent bricks are made of the soil of ant hills in Central Africa. The natives tread it with water into a doughlike substance, which is shaped in rough wooden molds. It is then dried in the sun, and afterward baked in native kilns.

Machine Gun an Experiment.

In our army machine guns have been supplied from time to time, but only experimentally and not as an intrinsic part of the army organization. The question has been studied, no doubt, by the general staff, but the definite organization and supply of this new arm has been postponed to make way for other more pressing considerations and also to profit by the experience of European nations before adopting any definite organization or tactics for this new but highly important arm of the service.

Cracks At Creation.

Did you know?

That the comet has come and gone and we are still right side up with care.

That a great many of our colored population took comet pills in order to be on the safe side and experienced no ill effects from passing through its tail.

That seeing the sun rise was as novel an experience to some people, as seeing the comet.

That Logan Smith said the best view of the comet was from the Ken-garian hotel.

That Edward VII goes down in history as Edward the Peacemaker. Billy Gooch goes down as Billy the Road-maker.

That the most popular form of amusement in America today is the moving picture show. It is the poor man's show, just as grand opera is the society event.

That we should ask and demand clean and wholesome moving pictures.

Morality, home times and christianity are all dragged down if the films are suggestive and debasing. Vulgar films are both contagious and contaminating.

That the moving picture show can be a potent factor for your child's education. No one can deny that the picture has a high place as a mental and moral education.

That it is with the parent whether the films shall be for the moral uplift and betterment of the child or unde-mine and destroy much of its purity.

That the picture business is here to stay, the only thing is, will it be made an aid to culture, to morality, to education, to science, to business and religion or will it degenerate the masses into a mob.

That the Lancaster Fair will look like Coney Island when it opens this year. We will have all that enterprise and ingenuity can accomplish in the amusement field.

That James A. Beazley and his support played to a crowded house Friday night. Mr. Beazley was not well but he braved the possibility of illness rather than disappoint the vast multitude there to do him honor.

That the signs of throat wear we had heard J. Botts Haselden was suffering from were not apparent as he spoke in a clear voice that carried well.

That after hard work, the opportunity came and three modest, unknown actors in a single night stand triumphant in the Hall of Fame and are known as John McRoberts, Gene Ald ridge and Frank Young.

Hair on Bald Heads Can Not Be Hoped for if Hair Follicles are Dead.

Dr. Nott, the famous hair and scalp specialist, says:—
"Among the thousands of cases I have seen there are few authentic instances where baldness has been successfully treated. If there was any treatment in existence that would accomplish this result, we Specialists would know about it."

"It seems to be proved beyond doubt that dead hair follicles cannot grow hair any more than dead seed can grow live plants."

"We do know, however, that we can restore gray hair to its natural color; that we can stop falling hair and cure dandruff and other scalp troubles. I have used

Q-BAN HAIR RESTORER

In hundreds of instances without one failure. I have also used Q-BAN HAIR TONIC for many years with invariable success, and I honestly believe that the use of these two remedies according to directions will result in a healthy scalp and a luxuriant growth of natural colored hair—even on bald heads, where some life remains in the hair follicles."

These remarkable preparations are sold at 50¢ per bottle for the Q-BAN HAIR RESTORER and 25¢ per bottle for the Q-BAN HAIR TONIC under a positive guarantee that if they fail to accomplish desired results, the money paid will be refunded. Why not begin using them TODAY?

UNION.

J. E. Hammond went to Knox county on business last week.

James Ross has opened a grocery store at Jack Hammacks old stand.

Mr. Brock, of Knox county, has been in this vicinity on business.

Mrs. Fannie Koehler went to Louisville recently to be at the bedside of her aunt who is dangerously ill.

Benj. Sippel, of Whitley county, is visiting relatives here. Mr. Sippel wants to teach in our county this year.

The noise of the hammer and saw heard all over this community now, from morn to night, made by the erecting of tobacco barns.

On Friday in the home of her mother, Mrs. Fannie Hawley, Mrs. Joseph Smith breathed her last, and Saturday the interment took place in the Springtown cemetery, whither a great number of grief stricken relatives and friends had followed the body to pay the last tribute of love.

She is survived by her husband, mother and several brothers and sisters.

Mrs. Smith was a devoted member of the Christian church, devoted to its work and every interest.

MARKSBURY.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. White Marce was quite sick the first of the week.

From Lucile's Diary

When father announced that he and his new young business friend, Walter Dare, were going to leave Friday before last for a flying trip to Washington, I immediately proposed myself as a member of the party.

"I don't think that would do at all," protested mother. "Your father and Mr. Dare will have a great many matters to attend to and you would be in the way."

"Daddy, dear," I said, after kissing the tiny bald spot on father's head, "is your little girl ever in your way?" "No, of course not, child," he replied. "Your mother simply meant that Dare and I are going to Washington on pretty important business, and will be too much occupied to devote much time to your entertainment."

"Oh, there are so many interesting things to see in Washington that I can entertain myself," I said.

"Father," I remarked, gayly, Thursday night, "my trunk is packed for Washington."

"Why, Lucile, you're not really expecting to go, are you?" asked mother.

"Of course I am," I answered, good naturedly.

"But your father did not say you could."

"He did not say I couldn't; did you, daddy?"

"No," answered father, "but I fear, my dear, that you'd better not go."

"I haven't been out of town for a long time, father," I urged, "and I love to travel with you. I shall be dreadfully disappointed if you don't take me." I could not keep back the tears as I spoke.

"Oh, well," said father, "if the child's heart is set on the trip I suppose she'll have to go."

Mr. Dare proved a delightful traveling companion. We had some long talks while father was in the smoking compartment. We disagreed just enough to make our discussions spicy, and by the time we reached Washington we were on the footing of old friends without having worn off the novelty of our short acquaintance. He had told me who were his favorite authors and I had named the actors I admired most and had laughingly confessed that my two passions were the theater and automobile.

"I'm sorry we can't go to some play to-night, Miss Lucile," he said, as we were breakfasting at our hotel Saturday morning. "Unfortunately, business is the order of this evening, but we won't let anything interfere with a nice little theater party Monday night."

"That will be lovely!" I exclaimed, enthusiastically.

When I went to my room after dinner Saturday evening I found a big bunch of roses, a box of candy, a thick new novel and a tiny note from Mr. Dare expressing the hope that I would not be lonely during the evening. I must say I think Mr. Dare was very nice in some ways. He was especially thoughtful about automobiles. Sunday he took father and me around Washington in a big touring car. Monday he suggested that I go to the concert at the marine barracks.

I was greatly astonished and delighted to meet my old school friend, Laura Burnett, after the concert. I had not seen her for years, for she married a marine officer when she was a mere child.

"Jack is stationed here now," she explained, "and we are having a lovely time. We are going to Fort Myer to a hop to-night, and you must go with us. Jack and I know a lot of bachelor officers who will make it pleasant for you."

Just then a perfectly stunning-looking young man joined us and she introduced him as Capt. Blossom, and he begged to be my escort to the hop.

Civic Notes.

Mounds of fertilizer look well in a truck garden but how does it strike you when allowed to remain on one of the prominent streets week after week. Please notice Danville street.

It is all right to depend on the moon for street lighting when it shines, but what about the recent cloudy, dark night with nary a ray of light, natural, or artificial?

A petrified brick inspires confidence because it is hard, strong and enduring. But folks would like them better if used on muddy street crossings, instead of in useless, unsightly piles.

Concrete side-walks are wanted so badly in Lancaster that the residents of Richmond street actually petitioned the Council to establish the street grade and allow them to build at this time nearly 1,500 feet and more constructed.

Every body likes good dogs when not too plentiful. A good dog is mans best friend but the streets and park do not make good kennels.

Is it not the Marshal's duty to take all dogs out of town limits after May 1? If so whence these odors which assail us so unmercifully?

Kentucky's Splendid New Statehouse Dedicated With Imposing Ceremonies

GOVERNOR'S STATE RECEPTION ROOM.

PERSPECTIVE VIEW OF KENTUCKY'S NEW CAPITOL.

MAIN CORRIDOR.

FRANKFORT, June 2.—Thousands of people at the ceremonies incident to the dedication of Kentucky's new state house today witnessed the official culmination of a fight of more than a hundred years on the part of Frankfort to retain the seat of government and on the part of other cities in the state to have the capital removed from Frankfort.

The citizens of Frankfort in that hundred years' fight have donated thousands of dollars toward paying for the first three or four statehouses and many more thousands in entertaining various legislatures in the effort to retain the seat of government here. Until the present splendid structure was actually built the Frankfort people have felt uneasy lest something might happen to rob them of the statehouse. The dedication of the new building has put all doubts to rest.

Thousands of people from practically every county in the old commonwealth journeyed to Frankfort this week to witness or take part in the formal ceremonies. More than 700 schoolgirls came on one train from Louisville and sang a song as a part of the dedication program.

A big temporary platform was erected immediately in front of the capitol building, and from this stand United States Senator W. O. Bradley delivered his eloquent speech as the orator of the day.

Mayor Polserove of Frankfort delivered the address of welcome, and Governor Wilson made a speech preceding that delivered by Senator Bradley. Several hundred former students of the Kentucky Military Institute, which school flourished four miles from Frankfort for more than fifty years, were in attendance, having decided to hold a reunion here on dedication day.

Official Program.

Following is the official program as arranged by the dedication committee and carried out:

- (a) 8 o'clock a. m.—Firing signal gun at arsenal.
- (b) 9 o'clock a. m.—Detachment of the reception and transportation committee, under their leaders, to assemble at their respective posts of assignment to receive and care for visitors.
- (c) 10 o'clock a. m.—Decorations of grave of Rev. J. McCluskey Blaney in Frankfort cemetery by committee of the Frankfort Business Men's club, as provided by resolution of that body in recognition of his loyalty to and his exertions in the retention of the seat of government at Frankfort.
- (d) 12 o'clock m.—Exercises at the capitol.
- (e) Salute fired from Arsenal hill.
- (f) Music by band.
- (g) Invocation by Bishop Lewis W. Burson.
- (h) Welcome on behalf of city by Mayor J. H. Polserove.
- (i) Song, "America," by Louisville Girls' High school.
- (j) Address by Governor Augustus E. Wilson.
- (k) Music by band.

of the building are ornamented with Ionic columns, thirty-two on the front four on either end and thirty on the back, all of which are monoliths, twenty-seven feet ten inches tall, weighing about eight or ten tons each.

The pediment over the north entrance, designed by Charles Henry Nicholas of New York and executed by the Austrian sculptor Peter Besselt for the sum of $10,000, is richly sculptured and adds greatly to the appearance of the building. The heroic figure in the center represents Kentucky standing in front of a chair of state. Her immediate attendants are Progress, who is seen kneeling at her feet pushing a wheel; Liberty, on the right, is recording the events of the richly recorded past. Plenty stands in the left background with a cornucopia overflowing with fruit and grain; Art is represented on the right by a female figure with palette and brush in her hand; Labor, in the rear, facing Art, by a male figure stripped to the waist and grasping a hammer. An agricultural aspect is introduced by groups of cattle and horses, with male and female figures wreathing the creatures as in a festive array. The idea of the statue is portrayed in the two ends of the pediment by its grouping, and its divisibility and stability are shown in the state seal, which is indicated at the left end by a group of two figures tying fasces, signifying strength and unity. At the other end is an Indian group of two figures, suggestive of pioneer days, crouching with fear and watching the approach of civilization.

The dimensions of the new state house are as follows: Total length from east to west, 403 feet; depth of central part of building through the vestibule, 185 feet; diameter of rotunda, 57 feet; height of building from terrace floor to top of parapet wall, 80 feet; height of dome from terrace floor to top of lantern, 212 feet; width of agricultural terrace at the front and rear of the wings of the building and at the east end, 30 feet; width of agricultural terrace at the west end and rear of central pavilion, 40 feet; length of pediment from base line to apex, 25 feet.

The following items represent the total cost of the building: Amount expended for building proper, $1,150,454.50; amount expended for grounds, $55,700; amount expended for furniture, carpets, marble floors, mural paintings, etc., $141,831; amount expended for metal file cases, vaults, etc., $45,188; amount expended for power plant, $90,000; amount expended for enrichment of pediment, $40,000; amount expended for heating, lighting and electrical fixtures, $108,703.20; amount expended for terrace and landscaping, $100,000, making a grand total of $1,500,000.

Legislation for New Capitol.

When the legislature of 1904 met the state of Kentucky was practically out of debt, and a bill appropriating $1,000,000 for the erecting of a new state capitol passed that body with but one dissenting vote. A commission to carry out the provisions of the act was appointed, consisting of the following: J. C. W. Beckham, governor; H. V. McChesney, secretary of state; S. W. Hager, state auditor; N. B. Hays, attorney general; and H. M. Bosworth, state treasurer. At the first meeting Henry B. Ware was elected secretary to the board.

It was provided by the act above referred to that the new building was to be erected upon the site of the old, but when the architect, Frank M. Andrews of Dayton, O., presented his plans it was found that the old location was not suitable for the proposed structure. A special session of the legislature was called to meet in January, 1905, to consider the matter, and the location was changed to South Frankfort on the grounds known as the "Hunt place," containing thirty acres, for which the state paid $43,000.

A contract was let to the General Supply and Construction company of New York for the erection of the building. On Aug. 14, 1905, ground was broken for the foundation, and on June 16, 1906, the cornerstone was laid.

Incident to the change of administration, which occurred on Jan. 1, 1908, the following commissioners took charge of affairs: Augustus E. Wilson, son, governor; Ben L. Bruner, secretary of state; Frank P. James, state auditor; James Brantlett, attorney general; and Edwin Farler, state treasurer, and thereupon Captain Edward M. Drane was elected secretary to the board.

Under this new management contracts were let for the completion and furnishing of the building, and on July 26, 1909, the building was first occupied by Secretary of State Ben L. Bruner.

New Statehouse Described.

The face work of the building is constructed of limestone from Bedford, Ind., with a Vermont granite base, and rests upon a concrete foundation. It is surrounded by an architectural stone terrace, with concrete floor, covered with vitrified brick. The outer walls

Farm and Stock.

W. B. Barton bought a fine show horse in Lincoln county this week.

Frank Marksbury bought a horse of W. B. Barton for $200.

A movement is being made by a number of wealthy and intelligent men in New York City to improve the abandoned farms in that State. They will apply scientific agriculture to the worn-out land and expect to bring it up to a profitable condition. Their work and its results will be watched with interest and reported in all the farm papers of the country.

A carriage company at Anderson, Indiana, failed recently on account of the auto business. The company put its money in an auto plant, and that failed, and the carriage factory failed with it.

Cultivation was first instituted to keep down weeds; it was found however, that it does more than this, and the effects of cultivation are, even now, very imperfectly understood. In cultivating a patch of beans, if we quit at nightfall with our task half done, the eye of the educated planter will observe next morning that the plants in the part cultivated yesterday are much different in color, the foliage a much darker green, and the leaves look much larger and thicker; this condition indicates that the cultivated plants had nitrogen in the night and that the other plants did not have. The immediate effects of small doses of nitrogen is to darken the green in the leaves. When came this nitrogen? Is it a fact, as some scientists have hinted, that there are nitrifying bacteria in the soil that are able to lay hold of the atmospheric nitrogen and fix it in the soil for the immediate use of the plants? Cultivation by forming a surface mulch of the lines tends to conserve moisture; cultivation stirs particles of organic matter, exposing it to the action of the air, where it oxidizes—burns up. Cultivation is very extensive of soil fertility; cultivation probably urges bacteria to greater activity by changing their location and in this way increases plant food; anyway, we have found a clean, cultivated orchard to be a good investment—it looks well, trees do better cultivated than in any other way; cultivation facilitates irrigation and leaves the soil in the best condition to absorb moisture, but we think it may be overdone. There can be nothing gained after the soil moisture is once formed; it seems a mistake to be constantly turning damp soil to the surface to be dried out, when the main object of the cultivation is to conserve the moisture. Extract from address by J. A. Balmor, Sr., before the Washington State Horticultural Association.

Drink It Standing.

Here's to the ones who are glad to have been brought on the world's stage, who are joyous in the playing of their part well, and who will be happy to go when the curtain falls.—Judge.

Pain

Nearly all women suffer some pain at times, due to the ailments peculiar to their sex. If your trouble is yet in a mild form, take Cardui to prevent it becoming more serious. If you have suffered long years, get Cardui at once. Use persistently and it will help you.

Take CARDUI

Mrs. L. Eells, of New Hartford, Ia., was afflicted for 24 years. She writes: "For the past 24 years I have been afflicted with womb trouble, causing extreme nervousness, pain in right side and back—altogether making life a burden. I tried doctors and various other remedies without relief. Finally I began using Wine of Cardui. Now I am entirely cured. I cheerfully advise all women similarly afflicted to try Cardui." Sold everywhere. E 44

CRAB ORCHARD.

Mrs. L. F. Jones has returned from a protracted visit to her mother near London.

Miss Ruth McCollum, of Junction City, is visiting her aunt, Mrs. O. P. King.

Mrs. W. H. Furr and children visited her sister, Mrs. Jno. McCarty the first of the week.

Miss Georgia Lewis who was Principal of the primary department at Williamsburg the past year is enjoying a much needed rest at the springs.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Riddle are rejoicing over the arrival of a fine boy at their home.

Miss Kate Bronaugh has been visiting her parents.

Relatives from Paris are visiting Mrs. Fannie Colyer who has been seriously ill.

Judge Colver went to Putaski last week to see his daughter who continues in a critical condition.

The commencement exercises of the Crab Orchard Graded and High school were held at the Baptist church Friday evening May 27. The program rendered was excellent, and much praise is due the teachers who so fully performed their duty. The closing act was a play entitled "Too much of a good thing," which lasted forty five minutes and was a credit to all those who took part.

Lovely Complexion

A Clear Skin and Bright Eyes are Easy to Get.

All the beauty creams in creation won't improve your complexion if your stomach is out of order.

Belching of gas and heartburn mean bad food in the stomach. Bad food means bad blood and bad blood means a bad complexion.

Try Mi-on-a stomach tablets for stomach misery, biliousness, dizziness and indigestion. They relieve in a few minutes; they make rich, red blood. They are guaranteed to cure or money back.

Read what a Kansas woman says:

"I want to praise Mi-on-a stomach tablets, for I had been suffering for over a year for stomach trouble and found nothing that did me as much good as Mi-on-a does. I only have the second box and it has relieved all pain in my stomach. For all who suffer from stomach trouble or indigestion Mi-on-a can't be beaten. You can use my name, for Mi-on-a has done a world of good for me when doctors failed."—Mrs. Cordelia B. Mann, 207 E. 11th St., Junction City, Kansas, Nov. 1, 1909.

Mi-on-a stomach tablets are sold by druggists everywhere and by R. E. McRoberts for 50 cents a large box. Test samples free from Booth's Mi-on-a, Buffalo, N. Y.
